ArchivaLife provides a new way for anyone to preserve personal history for future generations. According to Bill Burch, founder and developer, ArchivaLife offers an attractive, rugged, archival-quality memory keeper that makes recording life experiences easy and enjoyable. It’s ideal for the historian – the person who honors history, tradition and family, and wants to document his or her own life story, leaving a vivid legacy for future generations. ArchivaLife is especially appealing to men because of its historical, top-stitched leather-touch exterior style, a much different look from the typical scrapbook or memory keeper.

“ArchivaLife truly is a gift of love because it tells your loved one that you are interested in their experiences,” says Burch, “Plus it provides a way for the older generation to provide rich details that come to life so the younger generation can learn about their older family members’ experiences. It makes a wonderful gift that will last for generations to come and it looks great displayed in home offices, living rooms and dens.”

Prompts in multiple life categories – schooling, career, hobbies, friends, family, faith and much more – help people remember important events. Unlike other products such as photo albums and scrapbooks, ArchivaLife includes a unique, patent-pending timeline that allows people to document pivotal life details decade-by-decade.

Two editions are available online at www.ArchivaLife.com or (877) 982-7244. The ArchivaLife™ Classic Edition includes the memory-keeper, a 12” x 12” scrapbook album and archival case, and retails for $125. This leather-textured case fits most bookshelves and protects the full package for posterity. ArchivaLife™ LifeLines
